CREATING A NEW BEGINNING

“Now is the time to embody new ways of living in your world and new ways to receive the magnificent life force that is designed to continually expand the true Light and Love of Source within and around your body.”

“You are now living in a cycle that is filled with unprecedented opportunities to walk the Earth as a living master.”

Saint Germain

Over thousands of years, the mind developed what you now refer to as memory, yet memory only exists in collaboration with the belief in a past and a future. The collective consciousness of humanity has accepted its history as being real and thus the mind, body and emotional nature have learned to cling to time so the soul would have a way of defining and carrying forward its separate existence.

If you allow the mind to define you or to remain attached to the identities you have carried forward from your past or projected forward into your future, then the voice of your Heart as your authentic Presence cannot guide you into Unity Consciousness.

This is being brought to your attention so you can assist your ego in cooperating with your Presence to dispel one of the greatest myths in your world—that the past and the future actually exist. Your Presence exists in timelessness. To walk in your mastery, the powers you have given to either your individual or collective history or your imagined future must be brought into a new perspective so those time zones can act as your servants, rather than your guides, for ushering you into the freedom of the next Golden Age.

If the past becomes your guide, it will lead you down paths based on the false security of the familiar and the desire to avoid previously experienced pain.

Of course, great lessons have been learned and much mastery has been actualized over the ages so this is not to discount the value of your experiences. It is simply meant to assist you in discharging any unnecessary or unhealthy attachments that may be in the way of your full awakening. Now is the time to embody new ways of living in your world and new ways to receive the magnificent life force that was originally designed to continually expand the true Light and Love of Source within and around your body.

Your cells and atoms were meant to blaze forth the emanations of Source without the density of your personal and collective histories. The deeper you align the Presence in your Spiritual Heart, the less inclined you will be to energize any of the beliefs that may still be holding you in the past or the future and in the stories that make up your history.

Jeshua and Mary Magdalene

We are here as part of a Council of Elders to assist you in reconnecting with the great, yet silent non-emotional bliss that comes from your simply being present without having to make references to your past or to tell stories to support the dreams you hold for your future. The practice of presence—versus the practice of projecting into a future that will never be in the here and now—can open up opportunities that are greater than your futuristic dreams.

We are inviting you to live in the world with no self-referencing or self-consciousness; a world that is undivided by the stories of pain and separation that have collaborated to make up your collective history.

Your collective is not going to give you the template for your new Golden Age. That can only be created by individuals who have broken free of the massive maze of misinformation that is presently holding humanity in fear and isolation, individuals who are now choosing to work together as creative, masterful way showers who know they are here to usher in a whole new way of living and loving in your world.

You are now living in a cycle that is filled with unprecedented opportunities to walk the Earth as a living master. You can choose to move out of the confinement of your own self-imposed identities; you can choose to remember that you are seeded with the Love and Light of the Creator and that you are literally composed of the same stuff and the same creative abilities. In fact, you are constantly using these God-given abilities, only most of the time unconsciously versus consciously as your Presence.

In the new Golden Age of Freedom, the golden consciousness of the inner Christ will be awakened within every heart. This could also be called God Consciousness, for all that you are and all that life is everywhere is truly the manifestation of that One Beloved Self.

In 2010, many of you will see beyond the veils of the past and thereby receive the impulses and the yearning to create only what is in accordance with the Love that has always been designed to carry you into the fullness of Unity Consciousness. The opportunity to enter this together has not been before your hearts since the last Golden Age of early Atlantis.

As the soul developed within an imagined matrix of time, fear and separation from Source was implanted into the actual substance of the physical and emotional facets of the body. As the fear increased, true love naturally decreased and it became increasingly more difficult to sustain one's consciousness in the present.

Herein I present you with a challenge that has the power to change the way many of you are presently living your lives. STOP often during the course of your day and ask yourself these simple questions:

*Where am I now? Am I fully present?
Am I willing to simply experience this moment fully?*

The mind wants to have life be meaningful and exciting according to its terms, and it is those terms that have determined humankind's unwillingness to really be present, especially during life's ordinary moments. It is particularly valuable to ask the questions above if you are feeling unsatisfied by the ordinariness of your life. For it is the events within your day-to-day life that so often do not seem to satisfy your learned worldly appetite for emotional excitement and the meaningfulness that the hungry mind craves.

My beloved Mary now comes forth to encourage you to make Love the major focus of your life. The Love of which she speaks will seldom be mentioned in your books nor seen in your films as it would not be considered interesting to the minds and emotional nature of the majority of humankind. She speaks of the unchanging Love of the Divine ~ a Love that may be shared with all of life, yet a Love that no one actually brings to you nor can anyone take it away from you.

This Love emanates from every cell and atom of your body when you truly know that God in you is the Love you seek.

You can feel it in yourself and you can feel it being emanated by another, especially from their heart, yet it is beyond all the finite mind's definitions of love.

When you become this Love, then it can truly be expressed as the all-abiding essence of your embodied Presence, the You that is always in union with the Divine. When you love and know yourself from this level of the soul, then fear has no home within your mind or body. You can love yourself and others no matter the circumstances and you are in freedom, the keynote of the next Golden Age.

The Love within the Heart of your Presence has the power to transform all of your relationships. It is absolutely fearless in its intimacy and it is always unconditional.

The Queen of Light

There is an unprecedented influx of Divine Grace pouring into the hearts, minds and bodies of all of humanity. Please use it to accept and love yourself even when your ego may be tempting you to maintain your lowly or your lofty identifications with the separate self.

When you are unconditionally loving, your heart is emanating the Grace of the Beloved and you then assist others by simply being Present. Everyone around you will feel what it is to be accepted as they are. The miracle of Divine Grace allows everyone to feel forgiven for the ages of judgment and criticism they have placed upon themselves and others.

There is hardly a soul who truly loves, and yet therein lies the key for moving gracefully out of the patterns of one's past.

Memories will remain as long as one is alive, yet one's soul is often called back into similar situations because the charge related to the memory has not been neutralized and transformed out of the emotional body. During this time of the Great Shift in the Ages, everyone is being invited to release the charge that any part of their past may still have upon their capacity to be fully present.

When you are willing to recognize an old pattern rising up within you, then you have the opportunity of using Divine Grace and unconditional Love to bring that part of you and that part of your mind into the freedom of the Present. Your freedom is always and only in the here and now. Every moment is an opportunity to awaken.
