Living in Paradise

Part II

Your thoughts, feelings and life stories are all interconnected. They are what make up the collective consciousness of humanity. That consciousness is part of a vast crystalline library that is seen and felt by everyone in the universe. Just as humanity has used its creative powers to make your world what it is today, it also has the power to start supporting Earth as the Paradise planet she truly is. We are here to assist you in looking at your options.

Arcturus and Victoria, the Elohim of the Violet Ray

In your present paradigm, your thoughts and feelings have been mostly based on responses to the gravitational pull of the information that is already recorded within your memories and that of the collective. These memories have been kept alive because so many of you accepted them as being important to the creation of your future, or because they gave continuity to your existence, both individually and collectively. As much as we can assure you that you have created your realities based primarily on your past, we can equally say that there is a much larger Divine

Blueprint that is taking much more into account than what has been recorded within your personal or collective history.

During this last age, the gravitational pull of the collective became so familiar that the pulse of humanity's larger Divine Blueprint went virtually unfelt by the heart and unrecognized by the mind. This disconnection created the separation encoding that has been in place for thousands of years. We are therefore suggesting that you give yourself enough time outside of the matrix of the collective to open yourself up to the pulse of the Divine so it can awaken the original encoding from Source within your heart.

It is this pulse that is calling you into a much deeper alignment with your Presence and awakening the pre-separation encoding that is stored within your crystalline DNA. In that Light and that Love, thousands of you are being called to reach into the deepest recesses of your soul to elicit enough passion and compassion to individually and collectively awaken out of the separation myth. As you begin moving more consciously into unity thinking, feeling, living and loving, you will find yourself in a world that will feel completely new. You may also start to notice an increase in energy as your life force is no longer being drained by feeling separate from Source.

The glorious energies contained within the Sacred Sounds, Rays and Geometries that were given to you as part of your original encoding from Source are all there to support and amplify your moving into Unity Consciousness. They are within and around your bodies and your planet to assist you in co-creating your new Golden Age of Freedom. The capacities for using these creative gifts are all encoded, and capable of being remembered, deep within the Divine Blueprint that is held within the heart and cellular memory of every soul.

To expand the unified field of your consciousness, it is vital that you take responsibility for transforming any limiting thoughts that you have placed within the collective. There is no need to search for these thoughts and feelings, as they will arise quite naturally in your daily life. Every single event in your life ~ even those that look like tragedies ~ are always there to serve you. They are all opportunities to embrace previously unlovable or frightening circumstances; and if they come forth in your life, it is because you have become spiritually strong enough to transform these energies back into the Light.

Here's the paradox: Though it helps to witness yourself outside of the consciousness of the collective, you may have pieces in the collective that are woven into the fabric of your memories. If you have any emotional attachments to those memories, you then have the empowering opportunity of transforming that part of yourself within the collective.

The energies that you are willing to transform are then released back into your sphere of consciousness as pure Light and Love and every cell and atom of your body can then use that energy to support your living in total well being. This is one of the keys for augmenting your freedom within the paradise frequencies of your new Golden Age.

as a brilliant sun that is rising over
